It's the skeptics that totally kill of. This is also discussed on the Tesla Engineering page.

If that's not enough, then go read Winchester, Melville. This special warping would bear some resemblance to a Alcubierre warp drive though based on answers I am now informed a Natario drive is more plausible. But just as one can think of two dimensional beings living on the surface of the Earth, so one could imagine that the three dimensional space in which we live, was the surface of a sphere, in another dimension that we don't see. The sphere spins and rotates very rapidly in a reactionless drive system, and as we know in relative physics, the faster mass moves nearing the speed of light, the more the mass increases, and thus the frequency of time the "time zone" also speeds up. I've known someone like. Having realized Kirk was in trouble, Lieutenant Nyota Uhura finished the separation. Future Now.
